Product Description of Van Semi Trailer:

The van transport semi-trailer adopts a closed side guardrail design, which effectively reduces the lateral risk of the vehicle when driving at high speed and reduces energy consumption. The rear guard design has reasonable cart accessories for easy operation.

It is modified or manufactured separately on the chassis of a van car. According to the different compartments, it can be divided into passenger compartment type and carriage type.

The passenger compartment and the cab are generally an integral structure, such as ambulances, accommodation vehicles, environmental testing vehicles, dining vehicles, TV broadcast vehicles, etc.
